Q: What is inpatient or residential treatment?

A: Residential treatment programs last a minimum of 28 days.

During inpatient/residential treatment, patients live at a facility in which intensive drug and alcohol treatment programs are the cornerstone of the patient’s daily activities.

Often, patients who have attempted outpatient treatment programs but have ultimately relapsed back into drug and alcohol use, or have found outpatient programs difficult to complete, achieve success in a residential program.

Patients who require detoxification services due to concerns about withdrawal also benefit from residential programs, as detox services can be included as a part of residential treatment programs.
